Assignment #3

Speech Script

Hello, my name is Jeremiah Richard and I want to introduce to you a new video game project with a universe inspired by the likes of Avatar the Last Airbender and the high fantasy aspects that come from franchises such as Lord of the Rings, Dungeons and Dragons and the Elder Scrolls series named Source and Shadow.

This video game is a single and multiplayer third-person choice-based rpg. Comparable to live services, which is nothing the video game industry and its consumers are new to, this style in video games has been known to be a huge selling point for major profit due to the release of new content to round out a product more. However, the choice-based design of Source and Shadow is a feature often desired by fans of rpgs, but the twist of this system is a dynamic of group play which leads to unexpected changes in the world and new intriguing, branched choices which gives a breath of fresh air.

The release of a project like Source and Shadow is to capture an untapped target audience that has grown in size and eagerness for any new content similar to Avatar the Last Airbender and to allow their burst of creativity to be free in a highly customizable game. With the recent swelling sentiment being that the Avatar series usually gets the “short-hand of the stick” when it comes to high quality and budget releases by content creators echoing the voices of the community.

Just the official YouTube channel of Avatar the Last Airbender “receives 16.38 million views a month, and around 546.03 thousand views a day” according to an article published by Net Worth Spot. Then from that same source, the earnings of the YouTube channel alone is “$65.52 thousand a month, totaling $982.86 thousand a year.” However, video games of the series such as The Legend of Korra: The Game has plummeting reviews. Just to name a few, IGN gave it a “4.2 out of 10”, Gamespot gave it a “3 out of 10” and PC gamer a “63 out of 100”. This is also with only 211k units sold on Steam, the premier vendor for PC games (Video Game Insights). Yet the silver lining is that “an officially licensed tabletop RPG set in the world of Avatar: The Last Airbender and The Legend of Korra has crowdfunded over $1 million in just one day” according to IGN’s 2021 article.

The next big thing for fans of this series is certainly a product that can fulfill the challenges of their artistic and imaginative minds in a grand way. That is the purpose of Source and Shadows to offer a new and unique world that is just as impressionable as the Avatar series.
